Venezolanos piden priorizar los planes para mejorar las escuelas

(EFE).- Los venezolanos consideran que se debe priorizar la implementación de un plan para la mejora de la infraestructura escolar, reveló un estudio presentado este martes por el Fondo de las Naciones Unidas para la Infancia (Unicef) en Venezuela.

En su cuenta en Twitter, la organización informó que el representante de Unicef Venezuela, Abubacar Sultan, participó en la presentación de la Consulta Global por la Transformación Educativa (TES) en la que participaron más de 173.000 personas del país, que también pidieron un aumento en la cobertura del programa de alimentación escolar y acceso a internet en espacios educativos.

Inflation hits 9.1% in countries using euro currency

LONDON (AP) — Inflation in the European countries using the euro currency hit another record in August, fueled by soaring energy prices mainly driven by Russia's war in Ukraine.

Annual inflation in the eurozone's 19 countries rose to 9.1%, up from 8.9% in July, according to the latest figures released Wednesday by the European Union statistics agency Eurostat.

La búsqueda de más de 90.000 desaparecidos en Colombia no cesa

(EFE).- La búsqueda de desaparecidos no cesa en Colombia, donde se trabaja para encontrar a más de 90.000 personas de las que se perdió completamente el rastro y aún no se tiene noticia, la mayoría de ellas debido a las décadas de conflicto armado sufridas. En la conmemoración del Día Internacional de las Víctimas de Desapariciones Forzadas los familiares de quienes aún no han aparecido siguen luchando por encontrarlos.

Year-long study records whale songs off Scotland

The sounds of whales and dolphins have been recorded off Scotland's west coast over the course of a year for the first time, according to scientists.

Underwater microphones were deployed off the Hebrides and an area of ocean known as the continental shelf.

Researchers said a vast soundscape of whale songs as well as echolocation clicks and whistles were detected. The study will help guide conservation work and measures designed to protect wildlife around marine energy schemes.

More than 12 terrabytes of data were gathered from 10 microphones lowered to depths of between 60-175m (197-574ft) to cover an area stretching from the isles of Lewis and Barra to the west of St Kilda.

Sounds from dolphins and fin, minke, humpback and sei whales were among those recorded. The research led by Oban-based Scottish Association for Marine Science (Sams) has been published in the journal Frontiers in Remote Sensing.

University of Plymouth scientists were also involved.

La búsqueda de más de 90.000 desaparecidos en Colombia no cesa

"La desaparición forzada sigue todos los días, no tiene uno la posibilidad de ver a su familiar envejecer. Siempre la foto del joven, siempre. No tuvimos esa posibilidad de verlo con canas, de verlo enfermo, de verlo triste, eso nos lo han negado", asegura la portavoz del Movimiento Nacional de Víctimas de Crímenes de Estado (Movice), Luz Marina Hache. La mujer, que participó en la socialización y presentación del ejercicio audiovisual de sensibilización sobre los desaparecidos liderado por el estatal Instituto de Medicina Legal, lleva un retrato plastificado colgado de un hilo morado alrededor de su cuello.

Sobre él hay impresas una fecha -20 de noviembre de 1986, Bogotá- y un nombre -Eduardo Loffsner Torres-, aunque para Luz Marina él siempre ha sido "El Negro": su compañero sentimental, militante político de izquierdas, al que busca desde entonces. Según la Unidad de Búsqueda de Personas Dadas por Desaparecidas (UBPD), creada por el acuerdo de paz que firmaron el Gobierno y la antigua guerrilla de las FARC en 2016.

Inflation hits 9.1% in countries using euro currency

Inflation is at the highest levels since record-keeping for the euro began in 1997. The latest figures add pressure on European Central Bank officials to continue raising interest rates, which can tame inflation, but also stifle economic growth. Prices are rising in many other countries as Russia's war in Ukraine grinds on, triggering unprecedented increases for energy and food that are squeezing household finances. Disruptions to global manufacturing supply chains caused by the coronavirus pandemic have also played a role in pushing up prices. This summer has seen a wave of protests and strikes around the world by workers pushing for higher wages and people fed up with the high cost of living.
Inflation in Britain, Denmark and Norway, which have their own currencies, is also surging, according to official data released earlier this month. U.K. residents face an 80% jump in annual household energy bills, regulators warned last week.
Inflation is also high in the U.S., adding urgency for the Fed to keep raising interest rates. Prices were up 8.5% in July compared with a year earlier, thought that was lower than 9.1% in June.

Year-long study records whale songs off Scotland

The sounds of human activities, such as shipping, were also detected.

Warships' military sonar and live firing during Nato exercise Joint Warrior off Scotland's west coast was also recorded.

The scientists' array of microphones also detected the sounds of wind, rain and tides.

Sams' marine animal ecologist Dr Denise Risch said the study would also help in understanding the effects of climate change.

She said: "As the ocean warms, more species that are adapted to warmer water come north. For example, in recent years we've seen more common dolphins follow their prey as they migrate northwards.

"It will only take a couple more decades for there to be a different species composition in Scottish waters."

Dr Risch added: "This kind of data is valuable in explaining how a warming ocean is affecting the movement of cetaceans and their prey, but it is also the best way to find out whether certain species are recovering from the devastating effects of whaling and how we can protect them from current threats, such as entanglement in fishing gear and ocean noise."
"I had never heard anything like it," Katy said. "Oh, my God, tears flowed from our cheeks. We were just completely transfixed and amazed because the sounds are so beautiful, so powerful — so variable. They were, as we learned later, the sounds of just one animal. Just one animal."

Watlington had picked up the whale's call while doing some recording with underwater microphones — hydrophones — for his work. In those days, the Navy used such equipment to listen for enemy submarines.

"I don't think anybody knew what he was picking up, and he kept it a secret," Katy recalled. Watlington was afraid whalers would use the songs to find and kill the humpbacks.

‘Still a good day for Canada’ despite delay of Artemis moon rocket launch: minister

OTTAWA — Innovation Minister François-Philippe Champagne says today was “still a good day for Canada” even though the test launch of NASA’s new moon rocket was postponed this morning.

Champagne, who is in Florida for a two-day trip that includes meetings with Canadian astronauts and NASA officials, got up at 1:30 a.m. to head to the launch pad in Cape Canaveral only to see the mission delayed.

He told Canadian reporters that after more than half a century since humans last visited the moon, days or weeks of waiting for this Artemis test launch to proceed won’t matter in the long term.

A Canadian astronaut is expected to be on the first manned crew of the rocket, and Canada is contributing a new robotic arm to a space station NASA plans to put in orbit around the moon.

The debut flight was scheduled to go ahead today with three test dummies aboard, but a last-minute cascade of problems culminated in unexplained engine trouble.

The next launch attempt will not take place until Friday at the earliest and could be delayed until mid-September or later.

This report by The Canadian Press was first published Aug. 29, 2022.

Colombia y Venezuela, “hermanos siameses” distanciados y ahora reconciliados

EFE).- Después de siete años de crisis y rupturas, las relaciones de Colombia y Venezuela entran en una fase de deshielo con la llegada de embajadores a Caracas y Bogotá para comenzar la reconstrucción de los vínculos políticos, económicos, familiares y comerciales entre los dos países.

El giro es producto del cambio de Gobierno en Colombia, donde la llegada a la Presidencia de Gustavo Petro este mes propició el restablecimiento de las relaciones, rotas en febrero de 2019 cuando la Administración del país andino dejó de reconocer a Nicolás Maduro como presidente legítimo de Venezuela.

Petro, que tiene más afinidad política con Maduro que sus antecesores, prometió en la pasada campaña electoral que buscaría abrir totalmente la frontera y reanudar las relaciones, y en ese sentido avanzan los dos Gobiernos.

El nuevo embajador de Colombia en Venezuela, Armando Benedetti, presentó el lunes en Caracas sus cartas credenciales a Maduro, y su homólogo venezolano, Félix Plasencia, está en Bogotá a la espera del encuentro con Petro que sellará el restablecimiento de las relaciones entre dos países que se consideran “hermanos siameses” por los estrechos vínculos existentes de todo tipo al contar con la absoluta confianza de sus mentores.

Flag raised on Parliament Hill to honour residential school survivors

OTTAWA — The federal government raised the Survivors’ Flag on Parliament Hill today as a way to honour Indigenous Peoples forced to attend residential schools.

Prime Minister Justin Trudeau was joined by Stephanie Scott, executive director of the National Centre for Truth and Reconciliation, Crown-Indigenous Relations Minister Marc Miller, Northern Affairs Minister Dan Vandal and survivors of residential schools from across the country.

Trudeau called residential schools a “shameful” part of Canadian history and says the Survivors’ Flag would serve as a way for Canadians to remember what happened at the government-funded, church-operated institutions over more than a century.

The flag was designed in consultation and collaboration with survivors, with each element of the design approved by the group that was consulted.

Last year, ground-penetrating radar located what are believed to be hundreds of unmarked graves on the grounds of former residential schools, sparking efforts to remember survivors.

The flag will remain raised on Parliament Hill until 2024, when it will be moved to a permanent home.

Gorbachev mourned as rare world leader but some still bitter

BERLIN (AP) — Mikhail Gorbachev, the last leader of the Soviet Union and for many the man who restored democracy to then-communist-ruled European nations, was saluted Wednesday as a rare leader who changed the world and for a time brought hope for peace among the superpowers.

But the man who died Tuesday at 91 was also reviled by many countrymen who blamed him for the 1991 implosion of the Soviet Union and its diminution as a superpower.
The Russian nation that emerged from its Soviet past shrank in size as 15 new nations were created. The loss of pride and power also eventually led to the rise of Russian President Vladimir Putin, who has tried for the past quarter-century to restore Russia to its former glory and beyond. U.S. President Joe Biden praised Gorbachev for being open to democratic changes. Gorbachev won the 1990 Nobel Peace Prize for his role in ending the Cold War.

"After decades of brutal political repression, he embraced democratic reforms.

Chile: Los dichos de Bolsonaro son "falsos" y "erosionan la relación bilateral"

Santiago de Chile, 29 ago (EFE).- El Gobierno de Chile dijo este lunes que las declaraciones del presidente de Brasil, Jair Bolsonaro, sobre una supuesta implicación de su homólogo chileno, Gabriel Boric, en las protestas de 2019 son "falsas" y erosionan la relación bilateral".

"Son absolutamente falsas y lamentamos que en un contexto electoral se aprovechen las relaciones bilaterales y se polaricen a través de la desinformación y las noticias falsas", dijo en rueda de prensa la canciller chilena, Antonia Urrejola.

Urrejola anunció que citaron esta tarde al embajador brasileño en Chile, Paulo Pacheco, para entregarle una "nota de protesta", pero descartó una ruptura de las relaciones diplomáticas.

"Obviamente esas declaraciones no facilitan las relaciones, pero hay una relación histórica, tenemos una historia común y un futuro común y vamos a continuar trabajando esa relación bilateral", apuntó la ministra chilena.

El legado que los vascos dejaron en América (además de los apellidos)

Amerikara noa ere nere borondatez / hemen baino hobeto izateko ustez... ("Me voy a América por mi propia voluntad / con la esperanza de vivir mejor que aquí"...) Así comienza una popular canción en euskera —el idioma de los vascos— que describe el largo viaje que millones de ellos hicieron para migrar a países de América en diferentes etapas de los últimos cinco siglos en busca de nuevas oportunidades.

Esta migración fue común desde muchos países a lo largo de la historia.
Pero quizá lo más llamativo es que los vascos, que se reparten entre la Comunidad Autónoma del País Vasco (o Euskadi) y Navarra —en el norte de España— e Iparralde —en el suroeste de Francia—, dejaran una huella tan notable en América siendo una población que hoy apenas ronda los tres millones de personas.

Floods, drought, storms could cost Canada's economy $139 billion by 2050: report

OTTAWA — Floods, droughts and major storms that wash out highways, damage buildings and affect power grids could cost Canada's economy $139 billion over the next 30 years, a new climate-based analysis predicts.

The report, titled "Aquanomics," is being published today by GHD, a global engineering and architecture services firm.

GHD's Canadian water lead Don Holland said there are lots of reports that count up insured losses and physical damage after major events like last fall's atmospheric river in British Columbia.

"What this report does is actually takes into account the loss of economic productivity, the shocks to the system when it comes to supply chain prices, and all of that," Holland said in an interview.

He pointed to the 2021 B.C. floods, which for a time cut off rail and highway links between the country's biggest port in Vancouver and the rest of Canada. The disruption stressed supply chains already hampered by COVID-19, raising prices, slowing production in factories that couldn't get parts, and leaving some shelves empty in grocery stores and other retailers.

"It had huge knock-on effects," said Holland.

The report predicts manufacturing and distribution will take the biggest hit from water-related climate disasters between now and 2050 — an estimated $64 billion in losses, or about 0.2 per cent of the total manufacturing economy a year.

While droughts can restrict industrial production, floods and storms cause direct damage to buildings and machinery, or take out power supplies, forcing factories into silence.
The derecho wind storm that ripped across southern and eastern Ontario in May damaged the power grid in Ottawa so badly, parts of the city were without electricity for more than two weeks.
Drought is often seen as only a real risk to agriculture, but extreme drought can be much wider-reaching. In Europe, near-record lows on the Rhine River might halt marine traffic along Europe's most important shipping lane that links major ports in Belgium and the Netherlands to Germany and Switzerland.

Star swimmer Penny Oleksiak has surgery to repair cartilage tear in knee

Decorated swimmer Penny Oleksiak says she has a long recovery process ahead of her after undergoing surgery to repair torn cartilage in her knee.

The seven-time Olympic medallist form Toronto says in a post to her Instagram account that she recently sustained a meniscus tear. The meniscus is a rubbery piece of cartilage in the knee between the thigh bone and shin bone.

She says she underwent successful surgery at Women's College Hospital in Toronto and is optimistic about her recovery.

Oleksiak won two silver and two bronze at the world swimming championships earlier this year in Hungary, giving her nine career world championship medals overall (two silver, seven bronze).

She became the most decorated Canadian Olympian of all time at the Tokyo Games last year when she won three medals, increasing her career total to seven (one gold, two silver four bronze).

2022 WNBA awards: Aces' Jackie Young wins Most Improved by expanding 3-point game

Las Vegas Aces guard Jackie Young is adding a Most Improved Player award to her first All-Star nod in 2022, becoming the first in the franchise to win it. The award was announced by the WNBA on Monday and is voted on by members of the media.

Young was the Aces' No. 1 overall pick in the 2019 draft after leaving Notre Dame a season early and a favorite for awards since her hot start. She received 32 of the 56 votes from a national panel of sportswriters and broadcasters.

New York Liberty guard and 2020 No. 1 overall pick Sabrina Ionescu jumped into the conversation late in the season with her packed stat lines and received 10 votes. Phoenix Mercury guard Sophie Cunningham received seven votes and Aces guard Kelsey Plum received four. One vote each went to Dallas Wings center Teaira McCowan, Seattle Storm forward Gabby Williams and Liberty center Han Xu.

The Aces clinched the No. 1 seed in the playoffs with a 26-10 record and a tiebreaker over the Chicago Sky. They led the league offensively this season averaging 90.4 points per game, ranking third in league history, and 109.6 offensive efficiency, a record mark. Las Vegas already has one trophy in the Commissioner's Cup, which they won over the Sky in July. Jackie Young most improved in 3-point approach

Young's largest area of growth came in her 3-point shooting. The 6-foot guard hit a career-high 43.1% to rank fifth in the league and improve on her previous best of 31.8% (54th) her rookie season. But that was averaging not even one make per game on 1.3 average attempts. in 2020 and 2021, her attempts were under one per game and didn't qualify her to rank in the category.

It wasn't a large facet of her game at Notre Dame, either. She shot 45% her junior (and final) year, but was only 14-of-31. Over three seasons she made 36 of 99 attempts. This season she's made half as many threes as her number of college attempts, going 50-of-116.

Canada invests $100 million into “historic” action plan for 2SLGBTQI+ communities

OTTAWA — The federal government unveiled what it described as a historic first on Sunday as it announced a five-year, $100 million plan to support LGBTQ, two-spirit and intersex communities across the country.

Prime Minister Justin Trudeau unveiled the strategy, dubbed “Canada’s first federal 2SLGBTQI+ Action Plan,” at a news conference ahead of the pride parade in Ottawa — the first in-person march after a two-year hiatus due to COVID-19.

Trudeau said the plan is the first such federal initiative of its kind and said it demonstrates the government’s commitment to fighting discrimination and supporting diversity.

“This ... will guide our ongoing work to fight discrimination, break down barriers, to advance rights, and to build a future where everyone in Canada is truly free to be who they are and love whom they love,” Trudeau said on Sunday.

Trudeau said 75 per cent of the funding will go toward community organizations focused on diversity and inclusion because that’s “where the real work of support comes from.”

“The strength and resilience of your communities should inspire everyone,” he said.

he government previously announced in this year’s budget that it would earmark $100 million to benefit LGBTQI+ people. The action plan included details of where the money would go.

More than $5 million of the funding will go toward the launch of a public awareness campaign, while $7.7 million has been earmarked for data collection and community-led policy research to support federal action on LGBTQ issues.

Debbie Owusu-Akyeeah, executive director of the Canadian Centre for gender and sexual diversity, said the strategy was “long awaited and overdue,” adding more supports are needed including in schools.

She said Canada has lagged behind many other countries, such as the U.K., Ireland and the Netherlands which already have government action plans.

La Constitución a plebiscito en Chile, una de las más feministas del mundo

Santiago de Chile, 29 ago (EFE).- En menos de dos décadas, Chile pasó de ser uno de los países más conservadores de la región, con el divorcio y cualquier tipo de aborto prohibidos, a escribir una de las constituciones más feministas del mundo, un texto que pivota sobre la igualdad de género y que se plebiscitará el domingo.

La paridad en las instituciones, la interrupción voluntaria del embarazo y el reconocimiento del trabajo doméstico y de cuidados son algunos de los aspectos más vanguardistas, junto al derecho a una vida libre de violencia machista o la implantación de sistemas de salud y Justicia con perspectiva de género.

“El feminismo en este texto no es un simple artículo dentro de un capítulo, es una perspectiva que lo atraviesa todo y que articula un entramado normativo que pone la vida de las mujeres, las niñas y las disidencias en el centro”, explicó a Efe la exconstituyente y vocera de la Coordinadora Feminista 8M, Alondra Carrillo. Para Priscila González, vocera de la Red Chilena contra la Violencia hacia las Mujeres, explicitar el concepto de violencia machista en la ley fundamental en países como Chile, donde hoy en día está “muy fragmentado jurídicamente”, implica dotar al Estado de una importante herramienta para luchar contra este flagelo.

An actor from the “Harry Potter” franchise is calling out Air Canada for having the “worst” service after he travelled to Toronto.

Matthew Lewis, who played Neville Longbottom in all eight “Harry Potter” films, took to Twitter on Friday to share his experience with Canada’s largest airline.

“Confirmed. Air Canada is the worst airline in North America. And that’s saying something,” the 33-year-old U.K. native wrote in a tweet published Friday. According to “CTV News,” Lewis said Air Canada representatives kicked him out of first class on Friday morning after he approached the gate at Orlando International Airport.

“Literally tearing my ticket up. No explanation other than ‘full flight,’” the actor told “CTV News.”

“They said if I wanted to sort it I should go to customer service. I asked where that was. ‘Toronto.’ I’m in Orlando.”

La UE anuncia una “intervención de emergencia”

Para ya, que es tarde. La UE ya trabaja para “arreglar” el “desorbitado” aumento de precios de la energía, sin freno por los efectos de la guerra y ante la necesidad de “independizarnos” de Rusia.

Para ello, Ursula von der Leyen ha defendido este lunes la necesidad de reformar el mercado europeo y ha confirmado que se han dado los primeros pasos hacia una “intervención de emergencia y una reforma estructural del mercado eléctrico”. Este, ha explicado, se diseñó “para otras circunstancias”, por lo que “ya no es apto” en el actual contexto de guerra y “chantaje” ruso.

Bruselas tiene prisa, aunque todos los pasos comunitarios requieren tiempo. Los Veintisiete reunirán a sus ministros de Energía el próximo viernes 9 de septiembre, en una cumbre extraordinaria, como anunció el primer ministro checo, Peter Fiala, “para arreglar el mercado de la energía”. “Se ha llegado a un consenso sobre la necesidad de meter los precios en la arquitectura de la energía en la UE”.

Finlandia prometió “sacudir” al gobierno

Marin condujo a su país a través de la pandemia con una de las tasas de letalidad más bajas de Europa, luego viajó a Suecia vestida con su chaqueta de cuero característica para obtener apoyo para un intento histórico de unirse a la OTAN frente a la agresión rusa en Ucrania. Los videos de Marin bailando ruidosamente en una fiesta, filtrados la semana pasada, se han convertido en un ruidoso drama nacional que ha dividido a esta nación habitualmente plácida de 5,5 millones de personas, entre quienes claman por su renuncia y quienes la animan (incluido un hombre que se tatuó en la pantorrilla la imagen de Marin deslizándose de rodillas por el suelo).

En Finlandia y más allá, el asunto ha planteado la cuestión de si, como mujer joven que lidera su país, Marin está sujeta a un estándar diferente al de los líderes masculinos mayores. De igual manera ha alimentado un debate sobre lo que es y no es el comportamiento apropiado para una primera ministra.

Pakistan floods: One third of country is under water - minister

One-third of Pakistan has been completely submerged by historic flooding, its climate minister says.

Devastating flash floods have washed away roads, homes and crops - leaving a trail of deadly havoc across Pakistan.

“It’s all one big ocean, there’s no dry land to pump the water out,” Sherry Rehman told AFP, adding it had created a “crisis of unimaginable proportions.”

At least 1,136 people have died since the monsoon season began in June, according to officials.

The summer rain is the heaviest recorded in a decade and is blamed by the government on climate change.

“Literally, one-third of Pakistan is underwater right now, which has exceeded every boundary, every norm we’ve seen in the past,” Ms Rehman said.

“We’ve never seen anything like this,” the minister added.

Of those who are known to have died, 75 were in the past 24 hours alone, officials said on Monday, adding that the death toll is expected to rise.

Speaking to the BBC, Pakistan’s Foreign Minister Bilawal Bhutto-Zardari said one-third of those killed are believed to be children.

“We’re still coming to grips with the extent of the damage,” he added.

Officials estimate that more than 33 million Pakistanis - one in seven people - have been affected by the historic flooding.

Gibraltar es reconocida como ciudad británica 180 años después

LONDRES, 29 ago (Reuters) - Gibraltar se unió finalmente a la lista oficial de ciudades británicas el lunes, después de 180 años en los que su estatus, concedido por la reina Victoria, fuera pasado por alto debido a un error administrativo.

El territorio británico de ultramar presentó su candidatura para convertirse en ciudad a principios de este año, en el marco de las celebraciones de los 70 años de reinado de Isabel, pero una investigación en los Archivos Nacionales británicos determinó que, en realidad, se le había concedido el estatus de ciudad en 1842.

“Es excelente que se reconozca oficialmente a la ciudad de Gibraltar, un gran reconocimiento a su rica historia y dinamismo”, dijo en un comunicado el primer ministro británico, Boris Johnson.

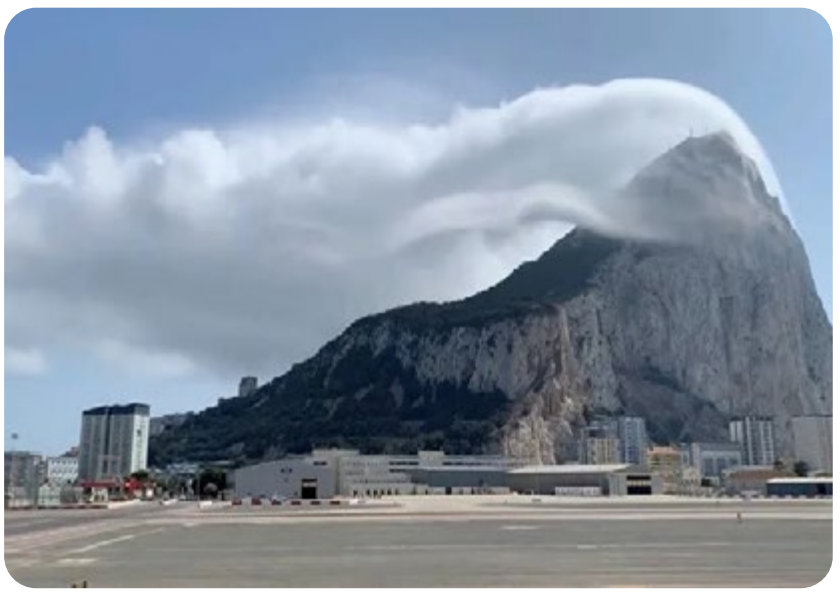
El Peñón de Gibraltar”Este reconocimiento oficial reafirma el estatus especial de Gibraltar en los reinos de su majestad (la reina Isabel), y simboliza con razón el orgullo que los gibraltareños sienten por su comunidad y su patrimonio distintivo”.

España cedió a Reino Unido este enclave rocoso de importancia estratégica, situado en la desembocadura del mar Mediterráneo en 1713, en virtud del Tratado de Utrecht que puso fin a la guerra de sucesión española, pero lleva mucho tiempo reclamando su devolución. En 2002, el 99% de los votantes de Gibraltar rechazaron la idea de que Reino Unido compartiera la soberanía con España.

El estatus de Gibraltar y la forma de vigilar la frontera con España ha sido un punto de controversia desde la votación británica de 2016 para abandonar la Unión Europea. La península quedó excluida del acuerdo de salida alcanzado entre Reino Unido y el bloque.



White House: Intelligence review of Trump document risk is ‘appropriate’

WASHINGTON (Reuters) -The White House on Monday said it is “appropriate” that the U.S. intelligence community is reviewing potential national security risks if former President Donald Trump took ultra-sensitive material to his residence after his term ended.

The White House is not involved in that probe of materials recovered during a search of Trump’s Florida residence, the Biden administration said.

National Intelligence Director (DNI) Avril Haines said in a letter to lawmakers on Friday that her office is working with the Justice Department to “facilitate a classification review” of documents including those recovered during the Aug. 8 search of Trump’s Florida residence Mar-a-Lago.

“It is an appropriate action for the director and the intelligence community to undertake,” National Security Council spokesperson John Kirby told reporters.

The Justice Department on Friday disclosed that it was investigating Trump for removing White House records because it believed he illegally held documents including some involving intelligence-gathering and clandestine human sources - among America’s most closely held secrets.

In the letter to lawmakers seen by Reuters, Haines said that DNI “will also lead an Intelligence Community (IC) assessment of the potential risk to national security that would result from the disclosure of the relevant documents” including those seized. She said the DNI was aiming not to interfere with the ongoing criminal investigation.

The FBI’s extraordinary search of Mar-a-Lago in Palm Beach ended with the seizure of 11 sets of classified records including some labeled “top secret” as documents that could gravely threaten national security if exposed.

The search was part of a federal investigation into whether Trump illegally removed and kept documents when he left office in January 2021 after losing the 2020 election to President Joe Biden and whether Trump tried to obstruct the probe.

Alberta Health expands COVID-19 booster eligibility for children aged 5-11

Children aged five to 11 in Alberta will soon be able to get a booster dose of a COVID-19 vaccine, Alberta Health announced Friday.
Health Canada approved the use of the Pfizer vaccine for boosters on children in that age group earlier this month. Expert committees strongly recommend a booster for children with immune-compromising conditions, according to a news release from the province.

Bookings open Aug. 29 and doses will start being administered Aug. 31. Doses will be given out at Alberta Health Services clinics across the province, as well as some pharmacies, the release said.

"Within days, we will begin offering booster doses and help provide ongoing protection from COVID-19, especially as our kids return to the classroom," Alberta Health Minister Jason Copping said in the release.

Immuno-compromised children aged five to 11 were already eligible for a three-dose primary series, so the boosters they receive will be fourth doses.

Kids aged five to 11 are recommended to receive their booster doses at least five months after they complete their primary series of COVID-19 vaccination.

COVID-19 continues to affect Albertans, with hospitalizations continuing to rise and a significant amount of the virus still circulating throughout the province.

Alberta's COVID-19 death toll increased by 27 people in the latest reporting week. while hospitalizations increased by 52, provincial data shows.

Cómo prevenir las infecciones por Salmonella

Cada año, aproximadamente 550 millones de personas sufren enfermedades diarreicas por consumir alimentos insalubres.

Entre los principales responsables de esta contaminación se encuentran las bacterias del grupo Salmonella.

Aquí te contamos cómo se transmiten, qué síntomas provocan y cómo prevenir las infecciones. La salmonelosis es una enfermedad provocada por Salmonella, un grupo de bacterias que está muy presente en animales domésticos y salvajes, como perros, gatos, pájaros, reptiles, aves de corral, cerdos y vacas.

Por este motivo, su transmisión suele estar asociada al consumo de alimentos de origen animal contaminados.

Sin embargo, también puede encontrarse en ciertas hortalizas contaminadas por el estiércol de esos animales. Cómo prevenir una intoxicación alimentaria También puede trasmitirse entre personas, por vía fecal-oral, o por el contacto con mascotas infectadas, las cuales no presentan signos de enfermedad.

La salmonelosis se caracteriza por los siguientes síntomas:
Aparición brusca de fiebre.
Dolor o calambre abdominal.
Diarrea.
Escalofríos.
Náuseas y vómitos.

Students, schools gearing up for first in-person orientation since COVID-19 halted events

As the countdown to the first day of school begins, post-secondary institutions in Canada are getting ready to host their first fully in-person orientation week for incoming students — a rite of passage that was postponed for two years due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

For Maddie Fines, a first-year student at Trent University in Peterborough, Ont., it's a chance for a fresh start.

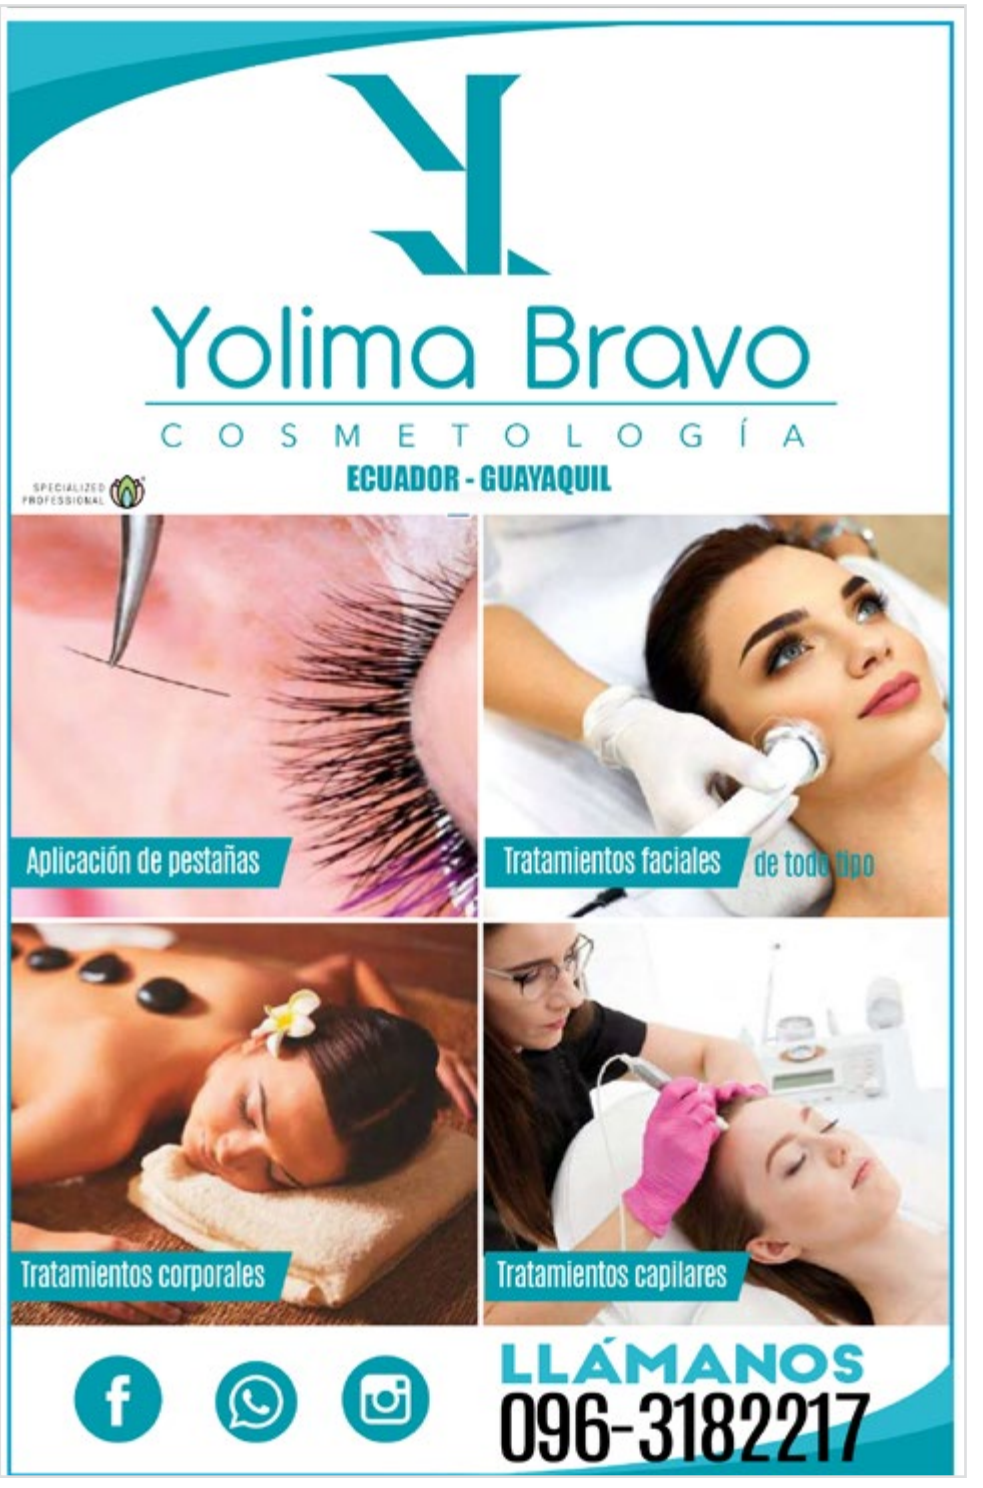
"I'm really looking forward to just branching out and meeting new people," she told CBC News.

This excitement is felt among all of those involved in orientation — from students to volunteers and staff. After two years of Zoom introductions and virtual tours, student life is finally ready to return to something more normal this fall.

Mahsa Eskandari, an associate vice-president of programming at Wilfrid Laurier University Students' Union in Waterloo, Ont., spoke to CBC News about the importance of orientation week.
"There's a lot of this culture that surrounds [post-secondary], especially with the orientation week. I think for a lot of people, that's one of the most exciting times," she said. "You come to campus and you feel the energy, you feel the space, the spirit that everyone kind of has."

Welcoming back in-person orientation.

For those involved in enhancing the campus experience, orientation week is the busiest time of year, said Andrew Bisnauth, manager of student life and campus engagement at Toronto Metropolitan University (TMU). He has been planning about 150 events over the last four months.
"We do have about 11,000 students that are coming into TMU," he said. "I do anticipate that we're going to have a lot of students [at orientation], pretty close to what we had in 2019."
This year, the downtown Toronto university added drag brunch and a body positivity fashion show. It's also teaching incoming students about organizational tools and time management skills, as well as hosting a wellness week.



Trudeau promises complete review of funding to anti-racism group after 'vile' tweets

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Justin Trudeau says the federal government is conducting a "complete review" of funding to an anti-racism group whose senior consultant sent a series of tweets about "Jewish white supremacists." Trudeau says the government is putting in place procedures to make sure that no hateful organization or individual receives public money in the future.

Diversity Minister Ahmed Hussen cut $133,000 in government funding to the Community Media Advocacy Centre last week and suspended an anti-racism project it was overseeing after "reprehensible and vile" tweets posted by its senior consultant, Laith Marouf, came to light.

Trudeau's comments come as other past funding for the organization is scrutinized.
Crown-Indigenous Relations Minister Marc Miller says he wants to see a clawback of grant money that his constituency office recommended providing to the group as part of the Canada Summer Jobs program in 2018.

The CMAC did not immediately respond to a renewed request for comment.

A lawyer representing Marouf has previously drawn a distinction between his client's tweets about people he calls "Jewish white supremacists'' and Jews in general, saying Marouf harbours no animus toward the Jewish faith as a collective group.

Zelenski recibe a los miembros de la misión del OIEA previo a su viaje a la central de Zaporiyia

El presidente de Ucrania, Volodimir Zelenski, ha recibido en Kiev a la misión del Organismo Internacional de la Energía Atómica (OIEA) que examinará la situación en la central nuclear de Zaporiyia, tomada por las fuerzas rusas desde principios de marzo.
Zelenski ha reclamado de nuevo la desmilitarización de la planta y ha advertido del riesgo de la escalada de combates en sus inmediaciones, que Kiev atribuye a operaciones de las Fuerzas Armadas rusas. Moscú, en cambio, afirma lo contrario.

El mandatario ucraniano ha agradecido personalmente al director del OIEA, Rafael Grossi, el compromiso con esta misión de observación, que según Zelenski debería tener acceso pleno a las instalaciones de Zaporiyia con vistas a descartar potenciales amenazas, informa Ukrinform.

Convoy organizers Tamara Lich and Chris Barber to go on trial in September 2023

OTTAWA — Two of the main "Freedom Convoy" organizers, Tamara Lich and Chris Barber, are expected to go on trial in September 2023 for charges related to the massive protest that gridlocked downtown Ottawa earlier this year.

Thousands of demonstrators filled the streets of Ottawa at the end of January and stayed for three weeks to protest COVID-19 restrictions and the Liberal government.

Big rigs and other vehicles blocked roads around the parliamentary precinct, filling the air with gas fumes and blaring horns at all hours as the city fell into what many officials have described a state of "lawlessness."

Lich and Barber were both arrested the day before hundreds of police officers in tactical gear moved in to remove the protesters from the roads around Parliament Hill in February.

28% de centros de salud en México, sin servicios básicos de higiene

BRUSELAS, Bélgica, agosto 30 (EL UNIVERSAL).- A tres años de la aparición de Covid-19, uno de cada cuatro establecimientos de salud en México carece de puntos para lavarse las manos con agua y jabón o desinfectante hidroalcohólico.

Así lo revela el informe publicado este martes por el Programa Conjunto de la Organización Mundial de la Salud (OMS) y el Fondo de las Naciones Unidas para la Infancia (UNICEF), sobre el estado de los servicios de agua, saneamiento e higiene en los establecimientos de sanitarios.

En el informe sobre los progresos realizados en el periodo 2000–2021, indica que solo el 72% de los establecimientos sanitarios del país cuentan con puntos para lavarse las manos con agua y jabón.

En tanto que la cobertura de instalaciones de saneamiento en los hospitales es deficitaria. El 67% dispone de servicios limitados que no cumplen los criterios básicos alcanza, mientras que un 3% no cuenta con dicho servicio.

Rusia calcula que 1.200 ucranianos murieron en la “ofensiva frustrada”

Más de 1.200 militares ucranianos murieron en la última jornada durante un intento de ofensiva en el sur, que fue frustrado por las tropas rusas, ha asegurado este martes el Ministerio de Defensa de Rusia.

“Como resultado de unas acciones eficaces de las fuerzas rusas fueron eliminados 48 tanques, 46 vehículos de infantería, 37 blindados de otras clases, ocho camionetas con ametralladoras pesadas y más de 1.200 militares”, dijo el portavoz castrense, Ígor Konashénkov.

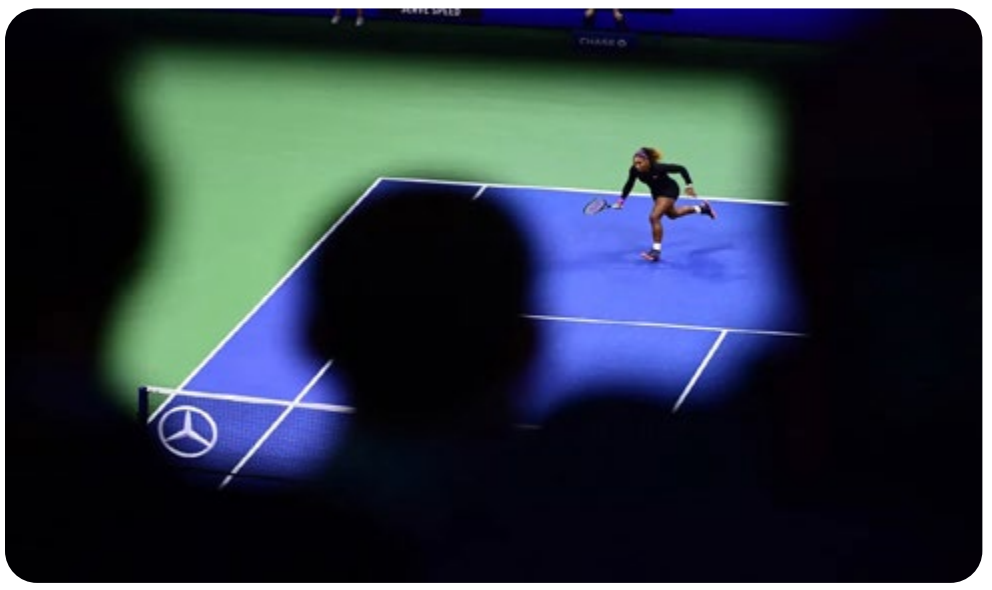
Agregó que la ofensiva, “lanzada por orden personal de Zelenski, en dirección a Mykolaiv y Krivói Rog fue frustrada”.

Anoche Defensa ya había confirmado la ofensiva del Ejército ucraniano hacia las regiones del sur que limitan con la anexionada península de Crimea.

Travel insurance specialist: Trip cancellation, trip interruption coverage is ‘paramount’

Travel insurance became a more critical part of plans during the COVID-19 pandemic but with many restrictions related to travel eliminated, trip cancellation and trip interruption insurance coverage are still more important than ever, particularly with the number of flight delays and cancellations we’ve been seeing.
“What’s come out of this pandemic...is the popularity of two new insurance products that were always there but not necessarily of interest to many, and that is now trip cancellation and interruption,” Martin Firestone, President of Travel Secure Inc. told Yahoo Canada. “The reason is because of all the issues going on out there with flight delays and cancelled flights, lost baggage and all those sorts of things.”
“Insurance is playing a key role here, at least you know you have a policy, you have a claim number and you can claim with the insurance company for costs incurred, a lost bag ... You’re allowed up to $900 per person for essentials, and things like that ... People now realize you can’t depend on the airline to compensate you or get your money back, so insurance takes on a whole new perspective.”
While previously, travellers had to look out for a COVID-19 rider, or a cap on expenses related to COVID-19, that isn’t the case anymore, with insurers treating it as “any other unexpected medical emergency,”

Opinión: Billie Jean King: Por qué Serena Williams es tan asombrosa



He visto pasar muchas generaciones en el tenis, y cada vez que ves a un gran jugador retirarse, es muy difícil. Pero la noticia de que Serena Williams deja el tenis es particularmente dura por lo que representa.

Su presencia y sus posturas políticas elevaron el juego. La técnica, potencia y el ritmo de su saque son asombrosos. Establecen el tono de la intensidad de su juego. No me importa lo que pase después de eso, solo quiero verla sacar. Conozco a Venus y Serena Williams desde que tenían 7 y 6 años. Las conocí por primera vez en abril de 1988. Había unas 1200 niñas ese día para una clínica de tenis en mi ciudad natal, Long Beach, California, cerca de Compton, donde las hermanas Williams crecieron. Desde entonces se notaba que eran especiales. Y era algo más que sus condiciones. Noté que escuchaban de verdad, escuchaban de manera activa. Se podría decir que estaban realmente ahí. Tenían una concentración prodigiosa.

Ese día, le pedí a Serena que sacara, y le dije: no cambies nada.

Serena es la mejor, la más grande de todos los tiempos, o al menos es la más grande de su tiempo, pues cada generación se refina. Serena cambió la forma de jugar al tenis. Durante los años en que ha jugado, sus servicios mejoraron mucho en el tenis de mujeres, y creo que ella es la razón: ha impulsado a las otras jugadoras a ser mejores. Tener un gran servicio te mantiene fuera de problemas. Cuando va perdiendo 30-40 o 15-40, puede hacer un par de ases y, antes de que te des cuenta, vuelve a estar cuarenta iguales.
En 1970, fui una de las jugadoras de las Nueve Originales que, junto con Gladys Heldman, creamos nuestra propia liga. Ese fue el nacimiento del tenis profesional femenino como lo conocemos. Después, en 1973, fundé la Asociación de Tenis Femenino. Queríamos hacer posible que cualquier niña en el mundo que fuera lo suficientemente buena tuviera un lugar para competi.

Mother of Quebecer killed in Ukraine tells memorial service her son was a hero

MONTREAL — The mother of a Quebec man who was killed last month in Ukraine fighting Russian forces told a memorial service Friday that her son’s “courage and big heart” made him a hero.
Marie-France Sirois told a service in Montreal her son Émile-Antoine Roy-Sirois and three other foreign volunteer soldiers died together under bombardment in Ukraine’s Donbas region on July 18.

“They died as heroes, in supporting each other to the end and sharing the same convictions,” Sirois told the crowd gathered at the Ukrainian Parish of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary in Montreal.

“The willingness to protect women and children and denounce injustice were part of my son’s DNA, I’m not the first to say it.”
Sirois described her 31-year-old son as a kind, funny and generous person who felt “a call he couldn’t ignore” to join the forces fighting in Ukraine. She described him as a kind of “philosopher knight” with chivalric values reminiscent of another time.

“Émile wanted to make a difference and I believe he succeeded,” she said.

“He is a hero for his courage and big heart, but what comforts me the most was I know that he was happy to the end, in acting to the height of his convictions.”

A silver urn and a military helmet bearing the name “Émile” sat on a table at the front of the church. Two framed portraits also sat on the table, which was flanked by bright yellow sunflowers.

Sirois received a standing ovation from the crowd gathered in the pews, many of whom wore traditional Ukrainian clothing or carried Quebec, Canadian or Ukrainian flags.
Eugene Czolij, the honorary consul of Ukraine in Montreal, told the crowd Roy-Sirois died a hero after trying to rescue a wounded colleague.

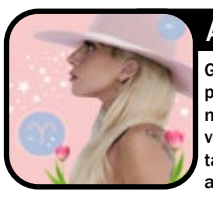
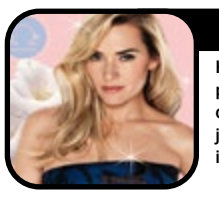
Horóscopo



ARIES MAR 21 - ABR 20

Gran día hoy para ti, Aries. Cierta conjunción astral propicia que estés súper atractiva, no sólo físicamente, sino también intelectualmente, vamos, una verdadera joya. Evidentemente siempre posees estas cualidades y de hecho se ponen de manifiesto a diario.



LIBRA SEP 23 - OCT 20

Hoy, Libra, quizá te levantes con los ánimos un poco por los suelos por algo que no acaba de concretarse. Aunque siempre tienes planes y objetivos, a diario te asaltan dudas que retrasan o incluso impiden la buena marcha de tus proyectos.

TAURO ABR 1 - MAY 21

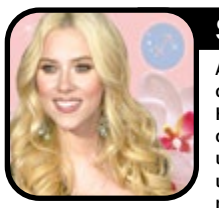
Intentas cuidarte y superar pequeños baches que se van presentando, Tauro, pero la verdad es que tú misma propicias estos altibajos a diario con una actitud que no te beneficia en nada. ¡Venga! ¡Levanta hoy el ánimo! No te castigues más pensando que tienes la culpa de algo y que has de ser tú quien arregle cualquier desaguisado, propio o ajeno.

ESCORPIO OCT 21 - NOV 22

Te vas a llevar una buena sorpresa a lo largo del día de hoy, Escorpio. Creías que estabas de vuelta de todo y va a ser que todavía no. Hay muchas cosas que todavía tienes que descubrir a diario, cosas insospechadas y a las que no habías prestado mucha atención.

GEMINIS MAYO 22 - JUNIO 21

Cuando crees que llevas razón, no hay quien te pare, Géminis. Lo bueno del caso es que a veces sólo lo crees pero no estás acertada en tus razonamientos. En ocasiones eres demasiado impulsiva y te lanzas sin paracaídas. Hoy no es buen día para eso, porque aunque a diario no tenga consecuencias notorias.



SAGITARIO NOV 23 - DIC 21

A ti, Sagitario, te encanta la buena vida, aunque con tanto ajetreo diario quizá no lo has advertido. Hoy has de reparar en ello. No las cosas que se compran con dinero, sino darte el placer de visitar un lugar maravilloso, de tomarte un aperitivo en una terraza entre semana, tener en tu casa ese magnífico y cómodo sillón.

CANCER JUN 22 - JUL 22

La economía es tu punto débil en estos días, Cáncer, lo cual no es de extrañar, ya que a diario pareces la madre Teresa de Calcuta. Estás sufriendo, hoy en especial, por hacer equilibrios y llegar a fin de mes, cuando en realidad hubieses llegado de sobra de no ser porque por el camino has ido ayudando a unos y otras.

CAPRICORNIO DIC 22 - ENE 21

Vas progresando a diario poquito a poco, Capricornio, con seguridad. Quizá no tan deprisa, como a ti te gusta, pero en este caso es mejor así. Estás en el mejor momento para concretar tus planes, esos proyectos que tanto te ilusionan.

LEO JULIO 23 - AGOSTO 22

Todo marcha en el aspecto físico, saludable Leo, pero tu parte psíquica podría jugarte una mala pasada. Precisamente hoy que también tendrás ante ti una oportunidad para demostrar tu talento y tu creatividad.

ACUARIO ENE 22 - FEB 20

Si te vienes abajo por los problemas que te rodean, te costará un poco remontar, Acuario. Pero los astros que transitan hoy por tu signo te ayudarán a que a diario todo se resuelva más rápidamente que de costumbre, o sea que tus penas están llegando a su fin.

VIRGO AGO 23 - SEP 2

Sigues de lo más cabezota con tus problemas sentimentales, erre que erre a diario, Virgo. Así no vas a ninguna parte y hoy todavía puede que lo acuses más . Tu lo sabes, conoces toda la teoría pero no eres capaz de llevarlo a la práctica. Te lo dice todo el mundo pero parece que estás cómoda en medio de un jaleo que no parece tener futuro.

PISCIS FEB 21 - MAR 20

Con tu carácter a diario tranquilo y relajado, Piscis, cuando te sale la vena del mal genio asustas a todo el mundo. A veces estás irreconocible y si esto te pasa hoy cuando estés con gente que no te conoce a fondo puede ser muy negativo.
